COINCIDENCE FOUND IN CRIMINAL CASES

NAMES IN RECENT TRAGEDY FIGURE IN OLD CRIME.

John Lemons Killed Eugene Lynch About Mother of Skiles Boys, Shot Sunday.

A striking coincidence was the publication in Monday's News of two stories which had a decided bearing on each other. The one was the killing of Jonah Skiles and the wounding of Henry Skiles, two alleged slackers, by Sheriff Robert P. Bass and posse, and the other was the recent killing of John Lemons, an ex-convict, at Wilder. It will be remembered that Lemon, a year or two ago, completed a twenty-a year or two ago, completed a twenty-year sentence in the state prison for the murder of Eugene Lynch, a deputy sheriff, at Soddy. The trouble which resulted in the death of Lynch arose over a woman, who, it was learned Tuesday morning, was the mother of Jonah and Henry Skiles, the two boys involved in Sunday's tragedy on Signal mountain. It seems that Lemons was going with the Skiles woman and Lynch arrested her on some misde-meanor charge and Lemons took exceptions to the arrest and lay in wait for Lynch, with the result that when Lynch appeared on the railroad track near Soddy his head was blown off with a shotgun.

Lemons was tried and sentenced to life imprisonment. A year or two ago he was paroled and secured work in the mines at Wilder, and recently was shot and killed by a prominent Wilder citizen, to whose daughter Lemons had made an insulting remark.

The Skiles boys, sons of the woman about whom Lynch was killed, were living in a mountain lair, where they had barricaded themselves against hiving in a mountain lair, where they had barricaded themselves against officers of the law who were searching for them on numerous charges of stealing and on the additional charge of being slackers. When Sheriff Bass and his posse arrived at the mountain home of the boys there was no one at home, but they waited until they had home, but they waited until they had returned, and upon seeing them called to them to halt. Both boys ran and the officers, shooting to only stop them, seriously wounded Henry in the legs. Jonah was also shot in the legs, but he was running along a ledge and as a result fell over the ledge, breaking his neck and fracturing his skull. Henry was rushed to Erlanger hospital. some, but they waited until they had where it was stated Tuesday he was improving. The body of Jonah was taken to the undertaking establishment of Jack O'Donohue & Co. and on Tuesday morning was buried in a pauper's grave at the expense of the county

States every year, according to estimates made by the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture. Many of them are Jack rabbits, the majority of which have not been utilized in the past. If all the rabbits killed were consumed, they would furnish between 200,000 and 300,000 tons of valuable food, and if proper measures were taken to insure the collection of skins, these alone would have a value of $20,000,000. The biological survey has frequently been valid upon to help western farmers in coping with the rabbit pest. In view of the probable economic value of rabbit meat and fur in the coming few years, the energies of the farmers and ranchmen will be directed to the conservation of this important resource. Already a number of establishments for collecting, dressing, canning, and shipping rabbit meat are in operation in western centers. As in Australia the transition of the wild rabbit in this country from its status as a peat to source of profit is assured, it is believed.

OUT OF JAIL INTO ARMY

The five months' sentence in the Hamilton county jail of Charley Richardson on the charge of selling whisky expired Tuesday morning and Wednesday morning Richardson will report to Camp Forrest, where he was stationed at the time he was tried.

Richardson several months ago enlisted in the army, and soon afterwards was arrested charged with selling whisky to soldiers. Despite the fact that he was needed in the army and was anxious to go to France. Capt. Kenneth Kern, of the provost guards, insisted on having him put in jail, where he has since been confined. Recently an effort was made by Richardson's counsel to have District Attorney-General W. T. Kennerly release him Son's counsel to have placed as a firm and allow him to go to the army. The district attorney, however, stated that he had promised Capt. Kern not to release Richardson, and he was allowed to finish his sentence.

AGAINST SHORT INTEREST

New York, Sept. 24.—Professional traders directed their efforts against the short interest at the opening of the stock market today, with the result that prices were soon carried up ½41½ points in the shares which were foremost in yesterday's advance. The inquiry from outside sources was larger and there was a continuance of the recent show of confidence displayed in all quarters. American Sumatra Tobacco and Distillers' Securities were marked exceptions, losing 1 and 1½ points, respectively.

Central Leather responded with a 2-point rise to the declaration of an extra dividend of 2 per cent. Speculation was much curtailed in other stocks in the early afternoon, but the trend was slowly upward, with American Can in brisk demand.

GEN. BLACK VISITOR

Future Enlargement of Camp for Engineers Depends on Commanders.

The future of Camp Forrest as an engineers' camp probably lies in the visit of Maj.-Gen. William M. Black, who is the chief of the engineers' corps, to the camp today. He will inspect all the facilities and will probably decide whether or not Forrest is to be used as a part of the concentration camp for engineers. It has already been announced from Washington that probably a large number of engineers would be brought to the local camp, but no definite information has yet been given out on the subject.

Maj.-Gen. Black is being accompanied on his trip by Lieut.-Col. Bradford C. Chynoweth and Maj. Sackett, of his staff. He will be accompanied on his tour of inspection by Col. Glenn E. Edgerton, commandant of Camp Forrest.

Camp Forrest is considered to be one of the best sites for an engineers' camp in the south, and it is hoped that the large contingent of men which is to be assigned to the engineers' corps will be sent here. The matter is being considered by department heads at Washington and their decision will probably be based on the visit of Maj.-Gen. Black to the camp.

C OTTON MARKET SHOWS MUCH BETTER FEELING

New York, Sept. 24.—The action of the cotton market early today reflected a much better feeling over the price-fixing proposition and there were advances which carried the market back to just about the prices prevailing, before the break of Saturday. The opening was somewhat irregular, with October 14 points lower under liquidation in preparation for notices, while later months were 10%14 points higher. There was active buying right after the call for both trade and short account, however, and October soon sold up to 32.60c, or 61 points net higher, while January touched 32.20c, or 76 points above last night's close. It was feit that any further action or decision with reference to price-fixing would depend upon the investigation of the committee appointed late yesterday, and that meanwhile cotton would be kept in motion and distribution controlled by the operations of the government buying committee, which was also named yeasterday. The volume of business diminished later in the morning and there were reactions of 15 or 15 points under realizing and scattered southern selling. The latter was not active enough to make much impression on prices, but it held advances in check, although the tone was generally stendy around 32.55c for October and 32.05c for January shortly sitar midday.

New Orleans, Sept. 24.—A favorable construction was placed by the local cotton trade today on the latest price-fixing developments and the market for contracts advanced from the opening. At the end of the first half-hour of business above yesterday's close.

Gradually the demand was filled up and a quiet tone prevailed, but without much of any reaction. At noon the active months were at a net rise of 36%30 points.

Less activity prevailed in the afternoon and prices sagged gradually until at 1 o'clock they were at a net rise of 36%30 points.

humble cottage which had sheltered her for many years.

The aged colored woman was one of Chattanooga's most picturesque characters. She was widely known among both white and colored people.

She was a staunch republican, "from the crown of my head to the sole of my foot," as she often remarked when questioned about her politics. She was opposed to granting suffrage to women and the old-time religion was good enough for her.

Probably no member of the colored race in this section had a more vivid recollection of wartime incidents than "Aunt" Lizzie. During the grim, bloody struggle between north and south, she played a leading part in deeds of service for her master. She was at one time a servant in the home of Dr. Axson, whose daughter was President Wilson's first wife. She affectionately referred to the first Mrs. Wilson as "Little Missus" and said "she was such a good chile, and pretty, too."

"she was such a good chile, and pretty, too."

"Aunt" Lizzie was born in slavery in Richmond. Va. When but a small child she was sold for $550. Later she was purchased by a wealthy Alabama planter by the name of Sales. She remained in his home until he died.

She took delight in relating some of her experiences in the early days. Particularly did she like to tell of the time she saved a large sum of her master's money. Several hundred dollars was entrusted to her care, and shortly after she arrived at the plantation there was a knock at the door. When she onened the door two masked men confronted her. In the darkness she got a glimpse of a big box, and was told her master had been killed in an accident. The men wanted to bring the corpse in the house, and were told by her that it must go in the sitting room or nowhere. When the box was brought in she ran into another room, secured a shotgun and leveled ht at the intruders. She also had revolvers buckled around her waist, and placing one of the revolvers where she could reach it she succeeded in prying the lid off the box. There lay a young man with a mask on his face. "Aunt" Lizzie removed the mask and the man begged her to spare his life. The two men had pulled him from his horse and were using him as a tool in their efforts to get the money. Luckily, the colored mammy had left the coin at the home of a Mr. Cobb.

On one occasion "Aunt" Lizzie cooked dinner for Gen. Grant and his men. The general complimented her on the good meal she prepared and rewarded her by saving her master's property in Atlanta. She came to Chattanooga during Cloveland's administration. She had fond memories of her old home at Richmond. Va. Commissioner Huffaker assured the co-operation of the city officials in keeping down careless spitting, insanitary conditions and other things that might become necessary in stamping out the disease.

At present there are no cases of Spanish influenza at the camp or in the city, as far as the physicians have determined, and the only case that has been at the camp was reported as hav-ing been brought into the camp by a doctor who came from Newport News. However, he was only here for a short

MAY USE WOMEN AS STREET CAR OPERATIVES

DEVELOPS DURING CONFER. FERENCE ON HEALTH.

Local Company Preparing for Inroads of Next Draft Upon

Already Small Force. Already Small Force.

That the management of the Chattanooga Railway and Light company is considering seriously putting women conductors on the street cars in Chattanooga was brought to light Tuesday morning in a conference which took place between E. D. Reed, Commissioner H. D. Huffaker and Dr. C. P. Knight. The conference was called at the reuest of Dr. Knight to discuss co-operation by the city health officials in case there developed an epidemic of Spanish influena among the soldiers at camp. Mr. Reed assured the city commissioner and Dr. Knight that the company would do everythink in its power to keep the street cars rom being overcrowded and take necessary precautions in keeping the cars clean and sanitary.

When the commissioner o education and health asked him how about putiting trailers and extra car service on some o the lines, the manager answered that they would as ar as possible, but he added that the labor question has been so erippled by the war and conditions were such that the company did not have the equipment to carry this plan out even now, as much as it would like. Here he was asked the question by Mr. Huffaker. "Why don't you put women conductors on the street cars?" and his answer was that he was very much in favor of doing this and that the officials of the company had been considering it most seriously. Mr. Reed said that if the women could work on farms and as section hands on railroad tracks up in the east, they could certainly act as conductors on street certainly act as conductors on street cars. He said further that in making certain repairs at the car barns re-cently he instructed the workmen to keep in mind in making these repairs that conditions might be such that women would have to be brought in at any minute.

women would have to be brought in at any minute.

He referred at one time to a special incident when the employes wanted to use a room over the shed for some purpose and he told them toe leave the room as it was, as they might bring women employes in any day.

Mr. Reed declared in the course of his conversation that this next draft would take a large percentage of men from the street car service and they would necessarily have to work out some plan in order to meet the emergency.
